his approach to further U. S.

unveil a surprise or two.

Nixon will speak at 9 p. m.

Sources at the Western White House cautioned today against advance speculation that Nixon would announce a successor to Henry Cabot Lodge as chief American peace negotiator in Paris, Press Secretary Ronald

At the same time, these sources did not rule out the apparent likelihood that Nixon, in what is billed as a 10- to 15-min-ute "update report" to the na-tion, would go beyond mere dis-cussion of troop levels and break new ground in presiden-tial discussion of the Southeast Asian situation

President Fleming says university regents had approved a 10 per cent goal in mid-March but could see only enough aid money in sight to accommodate 7

Later the regents authorized him to "seek additional financial guarantees... to close the gap between" 7 and 10 per cent black enrollment.

"With a week, following many faculty meetings and some agonizing reappraisals, the deans agreed to cut into the muscle of their programs if necessary to meet the financial requirements,"

A professor of economics at the University of Missouri has taken his slide rule in hand and reached the conclusion that Mom may have a point when she complains about slaving over a

"Take the cost of food in a restaurant," says Prof. John Welch, "and subtract from it the cost of buying and operating kitchen equipment and the cost of food. You'll find the difference leaves about 10 cents an hour for Mom's time over a hot stove and in crowded supermarkets."

Perhaps by a less scientific route, American families seem to be arriving at the same con-clusion as the professor. At the beginning of this century, statistics indicate one of 20 meals was eaten in a food establishment. Today, it is one of three.

The perplexing aspect is that kitchens today are vastly more complete and labor-free than they were in Grandma's time. How does the professor explain that?

No Libyan Deals

Relations between the United States and Libya have changed radically in the year since the U.S. contracted to sell eight F-5 jet fighter planes to the government then headed by King Idris. At that time Libya was a friend of the west, and the host to one of the largest air bases maintained by the U.S. anywhere.

Since then, the friendly monarchy has been overthrown and the succeeding military regime in short order canceled rights, aligned itself with the United Arab Republic, and has carried on a vociferously anti-U. S. campaign,

Washington rightly has con-demned the action of the French in selling 110 warplanes to the new Libyan regime, and it would be folly for the U.S. to fulfill the terms of its contract. The conditions which existed at the time the contract was signed do not

More to the point, it was Libya which caused the rupture of the status quo between the two Surprisingly, State Department officials assert no decision has been reached on the Libyan contract. It would seem Libya made that decision for Washington months ago.

He neglects, however, to point out that the "agonizing re-appraisals" came during a period when the university was all but shutdown by a strike launched by black militants and their sup-porters among faculty and other students.

The reappraisals were going on while Fleming was negotiating with the Black Action Movement (BAM) for the 10 per cent quota pact that finally permitted students to get back to their classes and halted the window breaking and halted the window breaking and vandalistic sign painting.

It stretches credulity beyond the breaking point for President Fleming to claim there was no heat involved in the settlement. If the final pact, represents justice, why didn't Fleming and the regents announce it in mid-March, before the strike? Why were they fiddling on the stage of Hill auditorium on the second day of the BAM strike when militants threw stink bombs dur-ing the hallowed Honors Convocation, turning it into a disgrace-ful shambles?

Fleming says that in attacking the U-M quota pact, Vice President Agnew quoted U-M Professor Gardner Ackley out of context. For, says Fleming, Ackley supports the 10 per cent black envelopment.

Some time after he gave the speech from which Agnew quoted, Prof. Ackley did say he favored the quota. But a copy of his original speech certainly doesn't indicate it. In fact, the speech is a scathing indictment of university subservience to militant groups for the past two years. One confusing reference to BAM is sandwiched between angry criticism of club-wielders who shut down Ackley's classes and a prophecy of the loss of academic freedom ending with

"There is no reason.
"There is only power."
No reasonable American can deny the need to mount crash programs of many kinds to hasten the day when Negro citizens win a fair share of the nation's economic and psychic rewards. The sooner they hold skilled jobs and professorships in skilled jobs and professorships in proportion to their numbers, the sooner they own businesses, the better. It is simple justice to right the wrongs perpetrated by slavery and something almost as bad, a century of second class citizenship. But still more is involved. Rapid improvement in the lot of Negroes is the surest way to save the nation from the whetter problems and well no problems. ghetto problems and ugly polarization threatening the U.S. today. Advancement of Negroes is in everybody's best interest.

Fleming thinks the 10 per cent quota system is one effective means of helping Negroes gain their rightful place in society. Every American should hope he's

But only time will tell. And Agnew thinks the quota won't work, that there are other, better means of advancing Negroes rapidly.

There is room for honest difference of opinion.

There isn't any room for argument over Agnew's contention that "surrender" to campus bully boys will destroy academic freedom. Prof. Ackley later said he spoke in haste and emotion, but he teed off on his university administration far more bitterly than did Agnew. In the heat of the BAM strike, he said that "the desires of the overwhelming majority of the students - who only want to learn — and of the overwhelming majority of the faculty — who only want to teach and investigate — count

The situation doesn't seem as bad as all that. In fact, some very real good maycome out of the strike. Last week the regents announced rather tough, new temporary rules of discipline. The rules provide for suspension or expulsion of students who commit vandalism or disrupt university activities.

It will be interesting to see if they are made to stick.
